

Amphibian Productions
Presents reading of Permanent Collection

For press information:
Lisa Taylor, 214-943-1099
lisatmp@swbell.net

Amphibian Productions, the theater company founded by TCU graduates in 2000, will launch its eighth season of readings and performances on Monday, Feb. 12 at 7 p.m. with the Permanent Collection by Thomas Gibbons at the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth, 3200 Darnell St. Loosely based on the controversies surrounding the famous Barnes Collection, Permanent Collection is a searing examination of racial politics that ultimately asks how much validity does the white world give to African and African-American art?

The reading is free with a suggested donation of $10 for adults and $5 for students. For more information, call 817-923-3012 or visit www.amphibianproductions.org. Come early to enjoy live jazz and a cash bar in the lobby from 6 to 7 pm. Amphibian is sponsored by the Arts Council of Fort Worth & Tarrant County, The City of Fort Worth, Pier 1, The Tobin Foundation, and The Scott Foundation among others.

Feb. 12, 2007 7 p.m. at the Modern
PERMANENT COLLECTION
by Thomas Gibbons
Director: Ed Smith (of Jubilee Theatre)

Starring:

Jerry Cleveland (lives and works in Louisville)
Aisha Goss (lives and works in Philadelphia)
Richard Ercole (lives and works in New York; an Amphibian)
Lisa Davis (local)
Evette Perry-Buchanan (local)
Eric Devlin (local)

Our narrator will be Sarah Elizondo.